A GREAA PARADE

Each year when the March of Dimes parades bravely by we find the joy in our hearts is balancedby the openness of our pocketbooks. Here, indeed, is the worthy cause — here, indeed, is sincerity. It is only natural, then, that the editor of Richmond's weekly newspaper, in common with his fellows the country over, should sit himself down with pen in hand, and take joy in a subject that is a writer's delight.

Because the story of the March of Dimes is a never-failing source of inspiration to one whose grist of earthly values quite overbalances, and ofttimes beclouds, that sense of the spirit which makes us, one and all, realize that it is a joy to live, a great joy to be of use to our fellow man. It is truly an ideal subject in which the recitation of the particular is, itself, a plea for the universal; wherein the practicality of logic meets the fulness of the human heart; and in all, which briefly acts as a common reminder of the great lesson of life.

The Law of Compensation

"What goes up, comes down" describes the action of the "Law of Compensation" as the hard of Concord calls it. "You get out of anything just what you put into it" is another saying along the same line — both as American in essence as "Live and let live" or "What's in it for ME?"

At any rate, it is generally agreed among the rich as well as the poor, among the lowly as well as the learned, that for every action there is a reaction which (while it may not develop at once) will eventually even matters up, will make the crooked roads straight, and establish a Golden Mean here on earth. Most of us, living our lives in a gentlemanly manner, are able to approximate this live-and-let-live ideal most of the time and in most of the varied activities that we humans pursue, else this old globe would indeed be a horrid place in which to live. Yet each of us, at times, strikes out as if he or she happened to be the Almighty and the rest of us creatures and creations but vassals, things whose sole excuse for being was for doing obedience to their desires. And some few of us, becoming proficient in a little department or two of this great store which we call the world (Shakespeare,we recall, was wont to call it a 'stage") become obsessed with the idea that the part is all of, or greater than, the whole.

Do you remember the story of the Flea and the Elephant?

The Flea and the Elephant

It seems that a Flea and an Elephant one day were walking across a bridge. It creaked and groaned under the excessive weight.

When they reached the other side the flea leaned back, preened his wings, puffed up his little chest, cocked his head to one side, and winked his eye as he looked up at the Elephant and tidefully said:

"My, we sure did make that bridge tremble, didn't we?"

And the Elephant looked down at him and snorted:

"Where do you get that WE stuff?'

How plentiful the fleas! How few the elephants!!

Speaking of fleas, this very writer, only few short weeks ago, had believed that he, bare-and single-handededly, had, all by himself solved the riddle of the universe. It was to have been as simple as this:

Each and every one strives for perfection — that is, perfection in happiness; perfection in our health or in wealth; in short, in attaining perfection of those things which we most desire in this world or the next . . . . . and then, all of sudden! it seemed to me as if I had by accident stumbled upon the true law of human being and doing which has as its goal and end: perfection.

A Law of Perfection?

It seemed perfectly reasonable to me that, starting with the fact that "what goes up, comes down" (the Law of Compensation, or Action and Reaction) that repeated recurrences of rise and ruin had taught me to ruminate that "the bigger they are, the harder they fall." In other words, since those who lived by the extreme usually perished by the extreme (an example in point being the case of one of those mortals who, living on the 'fat of the land' preceding the market crash, just couldn't "take it" and ended by blowing out his own inadequate brains) then it would appear reasonble to suppose that those who live sanely, in peace and amity with their fellow men, who experience the least of exaltation (and are conversely subject to a minimum of depression as recompense) are, not only like the old woman in Voltaire's story of "A Good Brahmin," the happiest of mortals, but by pure knowledge and reasoning power, which would have appealed as well to the Good Brahmin, himself, such good people are the most learned, deepest thinkers, at the same time.

Reasoning of the Humble

For they choose to enjoy life in the middle of the road, neither caring much to impress their ideas on others, or caring much for the efforts which others try to force on them. So then I visualized how happy the people of the world could be when they had learned my idea and put it into simple practice: No longer would they strive to outdo each other in providing the finest of champagnes for their tables because they would know that a cool, clear, cheap, common glass of water was a perfection that high price nor addelpated brain could challenge; no longer would connoisseurs scour the show palaces and markets and attics of the world to purchase Raphael's or Rembrandt's (the very originals) at front - page - headline prices, because ordinary, unenvious, people could appreciate that perfection of landscape and portraiture lays right within the orbit of their own bright eyes — that no thing of oil and canvas and pigment and imagination, extreme in its execution and rarity as might be, could contend in perfection to the ever-changing masterpieces of common sight that constantly greet our opened eyes; and, as a clincher, what is more perfect for our human existence, what other perfecion can you name that can outvalue the perfection of the very, next, breath of air that you or I will breathe?

Happy Secrets of Life

Reasoning thus, I came to believe that I had come upon the secrets of life: the secrets of health, of happiness, of wealth ((for wealth is but the possession of the things judged worthwhile) of love (for love is but the end-product of sacrifice). It seemed to me that I could see the world constantly striving toward goals of good or bad — both extremes in themselves (and neither one of which can be left to the definition of the other fellow, for they are so variable and often confused, one with the other) — and even then is good simply "good" or is it 'better' or 'best'? And is bad just "bad" or does it mean the extreme 'worst' or only the comparatively bad 'worse?'

(Lest any reader might mistake the importance of this basic reasoning, it might be well to consider that all wars, and especially all 'holy wars,' are fought upon this issue of good-and-bad and who says which is good and which is bad.)

Is Moderation Perfection?

You can, therefore, readily imagine my joy when, like a bolt out of the blue, the slogan "moderation is perfection" took hold of my mind. I went about telling all my friends. One, catching the spirit of my discovery, awefully whispered that what I meant was "Nature" or the Diety which, to him, were identical.

For a while I went about thus clasping my brainchild to my breast, if such a monstrous biological metaphor may be used— and then, all of a sudden, my supposedly all-powerful formula for human behavior and happiness went down like a house made of a pack of cards. I came to realize that moderation is capable,like all other worldly things of only one "perfection",its own, that is the perfection of moderation! True, in a live-and-let-live world of "what can I do for you" the perfection of moderation could be most desirable. Nevertheless,while the attribute of perfection can certainly be ascribed to the quality of appreciation, by the same reasoning there can be the "perfection" of a dread disease as well.

Alas for those who depend upon a word, a book, an institution or others, upon something or on somebody outside of themselves, to live, to feel, to die for themselves — only the Spirit can do that.

The words of description may fail, yet the spirit lives on. The word "moderation" may not describe Perfection, except as to itself (though that does not mean that the striving towards perfection of moderation may NOT lead to the Great Perfection in the end) but it has brought us to a consideration that all things are good or bad and capable of perfection, as the case may be, and that extremes are eventually balanced by extremes. A case book could be written of the innumerable instances in which this compensating swing of life's pendulum, from extreme to extreme in human relations has taken place.

An Abrupt Blunt Stop

Has this writer gone far enough in the consideration of this ideal subject of broad editorial nature, to indicate that we believe a high-water mark in the history of appreciation of humanity was reached when our great, glorious President Franklin D. Roosevelt, through faith in God and his fellow man, and himself, has fought his way back from almost certain death by infantile paralysis to take the helm of the ship of state of our country in a time of extreme peril.

To state that there could be a PER-fect case of infantile paralysis seems almost disrespectful to our great leader — yet can his presence amongst us be explained other than as a manifestation of the power of the Supreme Being whom we acknowledge. That he chooses to walk in the way of charity; that he gladly designates his birthday as a symbol of affection to our afflicted brothers,just as acceptable to us as we imagine it is to Him, is our great good fortune. And as for F. D. R.'s place in history — we honestly believe that, long after the political and economic and historic happenings of this decade have been forgotten, our President Roosevelt will, centuries hence, be remembered, affectionately, for the quality that has made him great — his sacrifice, (which is his love), for his afflicted brothers.

'42 Will Be Record Year For American Farm Crops

Food Goals Are Raised to Boost Production As Agriculture's Part in Winning The War for U. S. and Allies.

By BAUKHAGE
National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N-W, Washington, D. C.

The farmer came across.

He produced more the past year than any year in history. Never has America blossomed and borne fruit as she did. Next year the production will be even higher for the department of agriculture found that the farmer was willing to meet the goals set up last August, and even to exceed them.

But that doesn't mean that the food-for-victory problem has been settled. Now the department of agriculture finds a part of the problem back in its own lap, for we are in the war ourselves and our allies depend on us for supplies. The farmer must be assured labor, supplies and machinery to carry out his part of the job. And the processor must have the equipment to take care of perishable products when the farmer lays them down at the door.

Experts here tell me that the farm-labor problem is not unsolvable. The combined demands of war and industry mean that the farmer will have to put up with older hands, with less skilled farm hands. It means that schools will have to be dismissed at harvest time and when harvest time and cultivation time come together. It may mean a land army of women. But the farmer will get the help he needs, even if it isn't exactly the kind of help he would prefer.

Can Get Repairs

The farmer can also get the parts he needs to repair his farm machinery.

He will get some new machinery, enough to get by with.

He may have to skimp a little on the nitrates and the phosphates although at present there are reserve supplies.

But the big problem is to provide the processor with the essentials he needs to prepare the food and to wrap it up in packages for the consumers. Take for instance milk: some 24 new evaporating plants will have to be built, some 350 cheese factories will have to be put up.

And PIGS! This year was a record crop. Next year will be bigger. Will the packers be able to take care of the porkers which may be waddling up at the rate of a possible thousand a day to squeal their last squeals for freedom? That is one thing which the secretary of agriculture is battling over now. It takes tin and stainless steel and a lot of other things which the army wants before you can change a pig into a portable meal. And the army is tighter than a Sunday shoe when it comes to yielding up any of those essential metals. It is interested chiefly in destroying, not preserving.

Food Goals Raised

The department of agriculture has raised the food goals—already it has called for a 25 per cent boost in the tomatoes wanted; 33 per cent in snap-beans, corn and peas for canning. Russia is very likely going to ask for food that we had not figured on supplying. China may need more. And then, who knows there may be an American Expeditionary Force, probably will be before we are through, which will have to be fed. Modern armies still move on their stomachs, but even in that position they cannot eat off the land as they used to.

These extra, added demands were not in the cards when the original "food for freedom" goals were set up. But they will have to be taken care of. America's good earth can produce them, the farmers can and will raise them. The next thing is to wangle the means of putting them into the packages that will take them where they are going. It's a big job—one of those which when done, will win the war.

Wartime Washington— Crowded and Busy

Wartime Washington . . . crowded press and radio conferences at the White House with no one admitted without a photographic pass, registered fingerprints or a special signed card issued only to known and guaranteed bearers. Special police, secret service men and two superintendents each from press and radio galleries to inspect each card . . . a modification of the same system for entrance to all government buildings . . . anti-aircraft guns with their crews, like the one I can see from my window as I write, on top of buildings . . . more British reporters, no Japanese, German or Italian newsmen.

Fur coats on government workers which will be the last for a long time . . . "Paw" (Brigadier General) Watson, presidential secretary, in his uniform like hundreds of others . . . black paint around the edges of the broadcasting station's windows to keep the light from leaking out during blackouts . . . messenger-girls . . . tire-bootleggers and tire-thieves . . . traffic jams.

Will the Horse Stage a Comeback?

"My kingdom for a horse!"

A lot of the people who own America's 30 million vehicles may murmur that wish before long.

With sale of new autos and trucks banned pending rationing and with the rationing in effect, "My kingdom for a horse" may become no idle wish.

And nobody knows today when the farmer will be told he can have no new farm machinery when what he has wears out.

So the question naturally comes up, will the horse come back?

In the city he just can't. Some cities won't allow horse-drawn vehicles on certain streets. Washington is one of them and not long ago a man drove an old-fashioned carriage with a team of mules down Sixteenth street just to see if he could get away with it. He did—because after all, even a cop knows a mule isn't a horse.

But the city man, even if he learns which end of the horse to put the crouper on, wouldn't have any place to park the animal—he couldn't leave it out beside the curb all night the way many do their cars.

On the farm the horse may become a necessity. But his return will not be achieved overnight. In the first place every year with the increased mechanization of the farm, the supply of horseflesh has been dwindling. The situation isn't as bad as it was some years ago before vaccination scotched the sleeping sickness that threatened to reduce the equine population still further. But considering that it takes nearly four years after breeding before you get a horse in shape for regular heavy work, a market couldn't be built up to supply any increased demand for some time.

It is true that in 1932 and 1933 when money was scarce and feed was cheap a lot of farmers used horses instead of trucks. But the American is a mechanical minded man and unless he just naturally takes to animals he would a lot rather drive a motor. As one horse expert said to me:

"What's more a lot of folks are afraid of horses. Many men who will drive a farm truck 50 miles an hour nowadays would think he had a runaway on his hands if a team he was driving broke into a trot."

On the more serious side of the question however, is the possible long-time demand of the army for essential materials that go into trucks and tractors and which may cut down perceptibly the machines that run farms today. A lot of farmers, like a lot of city people, really can't afford to own the machinery they have. It makes work easier. A horse is more trouble than a machine. But a machine is not always necessary to do farm work any more than a car is necessary to the city dweller to do the work his own father made a shank's mare do.

Also, a horse can eat a lot of nonsalable roughage, which food is much cheaper than gasoline is going to be while we need it for tanks and airplanes and army jeeps.

Canadian Boundary

According to an agreement between Great Britain and the United States in 1818 the boundary between Canada and the United States was to be along the forty-ninth parallel latitude to the "Stony" (Rocky) mountains. The northern limit was to be the most northern point of the Lake of the Woods. In 1846 a treaty was drawn up between Great Britain and the United States which extended the boundary along the forty-ninth parallel as far west as the Strait of Juan de Fuca and thence to the Pacific ocean.

Schanz started his career with the Seals in 1938 and was sent to Tucson in the Arizona-Texas League; in 1939 he went to Salt Lake City, and in 1940 to Tacoma and Yakima. When he first reported to the Seals he showed a remarkably fast ball and a fine curve but lacked control. During the next two years his control improved and when he reported to the Seals in the spring of 1940 he showed remarkable ability, but because the Seals possessed a veteran pitching staff it was thought best to farm him out once more. With Tacoma and Yakima he won 18 and lost 9. He will be given every opportunity by Manager O'Doul in spring training. Schanz is one of the few pitchers who wear glasses. Rattling in Water Pipe

A HOME owner is much worried because of a rattling and vibration in his water supply pipes that comes with the turning on of a faucet. He says that the vibration is so great that it is felt all over his house, and naturally enough, he wants to know how it can be stopped. That trouble comes from a worn faucet washer, or from some loose inside part of a faucet. The rush of water through an opened faucet sets up a vibration that extends to the whole pipe. The remedy is to put in a new washer or to tighten up any part that may be loose. This vibration, which occurs when a faucet is opened, is quite different from the bang or hard thump that may come when a faucet is being closed, and especially when the closing is abrupt. That noise is due to the sudden stopping of the water flowing through the pipe; of the overcoming of its momentum. The noise is accompanied by a sudden rise in pressure that may strain the pipe and can be overcome by an air cushion.

This is an extension of the pipe, with the end tightly capped, or by a spring arrangement. Air contained in the capped pipe, or the springs, forms a cushion that takes up the momentum of the water and brings the flow to a gentle instead of an abrupt stop. The overcoming of the trouble, which is known as water hammer, calls for the services of a plumber.

Chimney Cleaning

Question: Our furnace chimney is so clogged with soot that there is no draft. Can the soot be cleared out by anything used in connection with the fire, such as salt? Or must cleaning be done from the chimney top?

Answer: Chemicals used as soot cleaners have the effect of reducing the temperature at which the soot will ignite, so that it will burn off. However, when a chimney is clogged with soot, this would be dangerous, for the fire might spread to the roof or to the house itself. The safe and sure way to clean a chimney is from the top. One easy method is to let down an old tire chain on a rope, swinging it around from side to side as it descends, so that the soot will be scraped off. The opening at the bottom of the chimney should have something over it to keep the powdery soot from messing up the room.

Furniture Finish

Question: An oak breakfast set was originally stained pale green, but much of the color has come off. How can the remaining stain be removed? How can I give the set a maple finish?

Answer: The stain should come out with a varnish remover, to be had at a paint store. For a finish, use varnish stain; you can get a good maple shade by mixing oak with a little mahogany.

Refinishing a Dresser

Question: I have an oak dresser that is now finished with enamel. How can I take the enamel off, so that I can use varnish?

Answer: Any liquid paint remover will do the job. Be sure that you follow the instructions on the label. The remover should be used in a place where there is plenty of ventilation, so that the vapors will be carried off. In a closed room they might cause a fire.

Skating Rink

Question: Roller skating is now becoming the vogue, and I would like to convert my maple dance floor for roller skating. Would skating render the floor useless for dancing again?

Answer: Roller skates with composition wheels will not do any great harm to the floor. When you wish to convert the floor for dancing again, sanding and refinishing will put it in good condition.

America has 95 percent of the world's tubs. The rest of the world has only one tub to every 1300 persons.

Bathtubs are only one yardstick of the progress of our Construction Industry. A similar parallel could be drawn with our modern lighting, heating—the conveniences in our kitchens, the beauty and utility of our homes.

Use the yardstick of value. Consider the ease with which you can buy a home today.

The key to all the progress of all our American way of life—and that means our own local Construction, too—is the system that encourages individual initiative—free enterprise.

Household Hints

by Lynn Chambers

Housewarming Time

Soft, sweet, crusty rolls, a fruity coffee cake, a plate of cookies, tempting sandwiches in crescent, diamond, circle or heart shapes, coffee, tea or cider from which to choose your drink—these form the basis of the refreshments for a housewarming. The event isn't lavish, it's simple, sincere and warm with friendliness for you've gathered to greet your friends in their new home.

Whether you've planned the housewarming as a surprise to the family in their new home, or whether you're inviting friends to an "at home" in your own home, keep everything as simple as possible. If you have many coming, ask some earlier and others later so the house will never be too crowded. No entertainment need be planned for everyone will want to inspect the house or apartment and have a light snack before leaving perhaps.

THIS WEEK'S MENU

*Assorted Sandwiches
*Sweet Bow Knot Rolls
*Honey Twists
Frosted Cup Cakes
Fruited Coffee Cake Cookies
Coffee Cider Tea
*Recipe Given

Clever invitations can be sent out by using a miniature plan of the house, a rough drawing or silhouette of the house and writing the invitation inside or out as it best fits.

All refreshments can be placed on a table set simply with a plain cloth and attractive flowers. Teenage girls will enjoy helping at the table pouring coffee or tea and helping fill the trays of rolls and sandwiches as they're used.

Hot rolls with the smell of the oven still on them will spell a grand welcome, especially when your guests come in from frost-nipped outdoors:

Sweet Bow Knot Rolls.
(Makes 2½ dozen)

1 cup milk
¼ cup butter
⅓ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 cakes compressed yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
2 eggs
4½ cups sifted flour (about)

Scald milk and pour over butter, sugar and salt. Crumble yeast into water to soften. Cool milk to lukewarm, add yeast, beaten eggs and 2 cups flour. Beat well. Add enough flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on a floured board and knead until smooth. Form into a ball and place in a greased bowl. Cover and let rise until double in bulk. When light, knead down and shape into long strands, 6 inches long, ½ inch in diameter. Tie these strands into a single looped knot. Place on greased baking sheet and let rise until doubled. Bake in a moderate (375-degree) oven, 15 to 20 minutes. Brush with powdered sugar icing and sprinkle with chopped nuts.

Honey Twists.
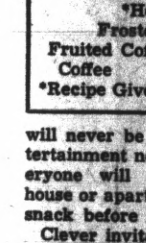
(Makes 2½ dozen)

Use the same ingredients as in Sweet Bow Knot Rolls. Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk, add butter, sugar and salt. Cool to lukewarm and add enough flour to make a thick batter. Add yeast and eggs. Beat well and add more flour to make a soft dough. Place in a greased bowl and let rise until doubled. When light punch down and roll into small strands about 6 inches long, ½ inch in diameter. Coil into greased 2-inch muffin pans, beginning at the outer edge and covering the bottom. Brush with Honey Topping. Let rise until double in bulk and bake in a moderate oven 25 to 30 minutes.



Honey Topping.

¼ cup butter
⅔ cup powdered sugar
1 egg white
2 tablespoons honey, warmed

Cream all ingredients together and brush over Twists before baking.

Here are some cookies that are as delightful as homespun. They're especially nice for housewarming because the recipe makes a large quantity and you won't be able to count consumption on them. The blending of fruits with spices makes this a popular cookie:

Cape Elizabeth Cookies.
(Makes 3½ dozen medium)

½ cup butter
1 cup brown sugar
1 egg
5 tablespoons milk
1½ cups flour
1 cup rolled oats
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspon allspice
½ cup pineapple cut into shreds, drained
½ cup walnuts, chopped
½ cup raisins
3 tablespoons grated orange rind

Combine sugar and butter, add egg and milk, then dry ingredients. Last of all add the fruit and nuts. Drop by spoonfuls on greased cookie sheet. Bake in a moderate (375-degree) oven 8 minutes.

Here are some tempting sandwich combinations for the sandwich platter. Made in crescent, star, heart or triangle shapes they'll be one of the most popular numbers at the housewarming:

Assorted Sandwiches.

Flaked tuna or salmon seasoned with mayonnaise, lemon juice, and butter.

Mashed sardines, lemon juice, chili sauce.

Mashed liverwurst with chili sauce.

Peanut butter and chopped, cooked bacon.

Cooked ham ground with sweet pickle, moistened with mayonnaise.

Cream cheese with orange marmalade or cranberry jelly.

Sliced American cheese, thinly sliced fried ham, mustard.

LYNN SAYS:

Rolls in a variety of shapes are guaranteed to please the most fastidious family. Here's a list of favorite shapes to try out:

Knots: Twist and tie strip of dough into a knot.

Parker House: Roll dough ½ inch thick, cut into rounds with biscuit cutter, dip in melted butter and fold in half. Place rolls close together in pan.

Crescents: Cut dough into triangle shapes, having dough at least four inches at wide end. Spread with butter, roll beginning at one corner. Pull ends to resemble a crescent.

Butterhorns: Cut dough in edge shapes, brush with butter, roll towards point.

Butter Flakes: Roll dough ¼ inch thick, brush with butter, cut in 2-inch strips. Stack strips 4 or 5 high, cut into 2-inch pieces and place in greased muffin tins cut side down.

Canada's Anthem

"The Maple Leaf Forever" is the national anthem of Canada.

READ THE PROGRESS

'Africa'

The name "Africa" was first used to describe the region of Carthage and Tunisia, then a Roman province.

Mule-Foot Hogs

Mule-foot hogs are a very ancient breed, probably being natives of Africa. A little less than two centuries ago Linnaeus, the famous Swedish naturalist, classified mule-foot hogs as a distinct breed. Darwin in 1859 described them and mentioned that they were to be found in Scotland. This breed became established in America in 1908 through the formation of the National Mule-Foot Hog association. It is not the offshoot from any other breed and has not been produced by crossing with any other species. The name mule-foot is derived from the shape of the feet, the hoof not being split.

Rumania's Welcome

It is reported that when parties of American tourists arrive at Bucharest in Rumania they are often met at the railway station by a 50-piece brass band playing "The Star Spangled Banner."

On Eve of Waterloo

In the Rue des Cendres, Brussels, the convent at No. 7 represents the house in which "there was a sound of revelry by night" at the duchess of Richmond's famous ball on the eve of the Battle of Waterloo. An adjacent building was used as the ball room.

Buddha Strikes Again?

A statue of Buddha was delivered for exhibit at the Bedham Art school in Ipswich, England, with a warning that according to legend, disaster would follow if it were removed from its pedestal. Students laughed; they put the statue on the floor and threw cherry pits in its lap. That night the school burned down.

Sweet Revenge

Jack N. Williams, 25, rested in the Westmoreland, Calif., jail, his revenge impulse at ease. Police said he stole an empty 10-ton Greyhound bus and, in a sort of motorist's revenge, took it on a wild 50-mile ride at 70 miles an hour, forcing trucks off the highways like frightened chickens. He stopped only when police opened fire on the bus, nicking him on the wrist. "It was just an impulse," Williams was quoted as explaining. "I wanted to get back some of that right-of-way I'd been giving up to trucks for all these years."

BLACKOUT
see it through with cheerful light

From time to time, within certain areas, there are going to be alarms that call for blackouts. All such alarms call for serious BLACKOUTS. That means EVERY HOME or BUILDING MUST be BLACK OUTSIDE. No beckoning finger of light should be visible to air raid wardens or the enemy.

Many alarms may come in daylight. But when alarms come at night, there should be no sitting in the dark for an hour or so. Black-out and keep lights on. Schools are carrying on just the same and home work must be completed. Knitting socks or mending clothes will grow to be more and more vital parts of defense material conservation. News of the day will be read more carefully. There is going to be less and less gadding about in the family auto.

Keep spirits up by carrying on with cheerful light. Use modern softly-diffused lighting. Do away with glaring light. Install and buy modern lighting that is cheerful and easy on the eyes. There is no shortage yet of better lighting fixtures and lamps. Equip your home now with modern eye-saving light.

PIN-IT-UP
This is a handy portable type of light that is ideal for blackout rooms. Plug it in and hang it up like a picture on the wall.

DINING-ROOM
Are your dining room lights bright and glaring as candles? Cut off that glare and have better light from a modern fixture that throws soft pleasing light downward on the table.

KITCHEN
Many homes are fixing the kitchen to be light proof outside. Install a modern kitchen lighting unit that assures appetizing will be satisfied on regular meal times.
